Re Item V

Reasoned statement with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

The following documents cited in the search report are referred to in this communication;

- D1: US-A-5 378 843 (STRONG HENRY L) 3 January 1995 (1995-01-03)
- D2: US-A-5 614 635 (MILLER PAUL E) 25 March 1997 (1997-03-25)
- D3: US-A-5 334 576 (DOEHNER JR ROBERT F ET AL) 2 August 1994 (1994-08-02)
- D4: US-A-6 080 867 (WU WEN-XUE) 27 June 2000 (2000-06-27)

With regard to the requirement for novelty (Article 33(2) of the PCT), none of the documents D1-D4 discloses the use of an oxidising agent for the in-situ removal of impurities from a saponified solution of a pyridine-2,3-dicarboxylic acid ester as required by independent claims 1,16 and 33 of the present application. Article 33(2) of the PCT thus appears to have been satisfied.

With regard to the requirement for inventive step, the problem underlying the present application has been stated to have been the provision of a method of improving product quality of pyridine-2,3-dicarboxylic acids. The solution provided by the Applicant is the removal of impurities during the manufacturing process by the addition of an oxidising agent to the saponified solution of the diester. One general example has been given, without specification of which diester was used, whereby a purity of 98.9% was obtained. The man skilled in the art, faced with the problem as defined above, would have had no direct incentive from the prior art to use an oxidising agent as required by the application, but the technical features of the independent claims are not considered to be sufficiently detailed to draw the conclusion that all subject matter falling within the claims could be expected to provide a solution to the problem. Specifically, the diester is only specified in claims 15,31 and 48, the "amount effective to remove impurities" is only specified when for hydrogen peroxide in claims 7,8,22,23,39,40 and the nature of the oxidising agent only in claims 4,19,36. Also the use of terms such as "from a darker colour to a lighter colour" in claims 9,24 and 41 are considered to be subjective, and not technical features. Thus before an inventive step can be acknowledged, it is considered that all of the essential technical features should be included in the independent claims, such that it is plausible that all subject matter claimed satisfies the requirements of Article 33(3) of the PCT.
